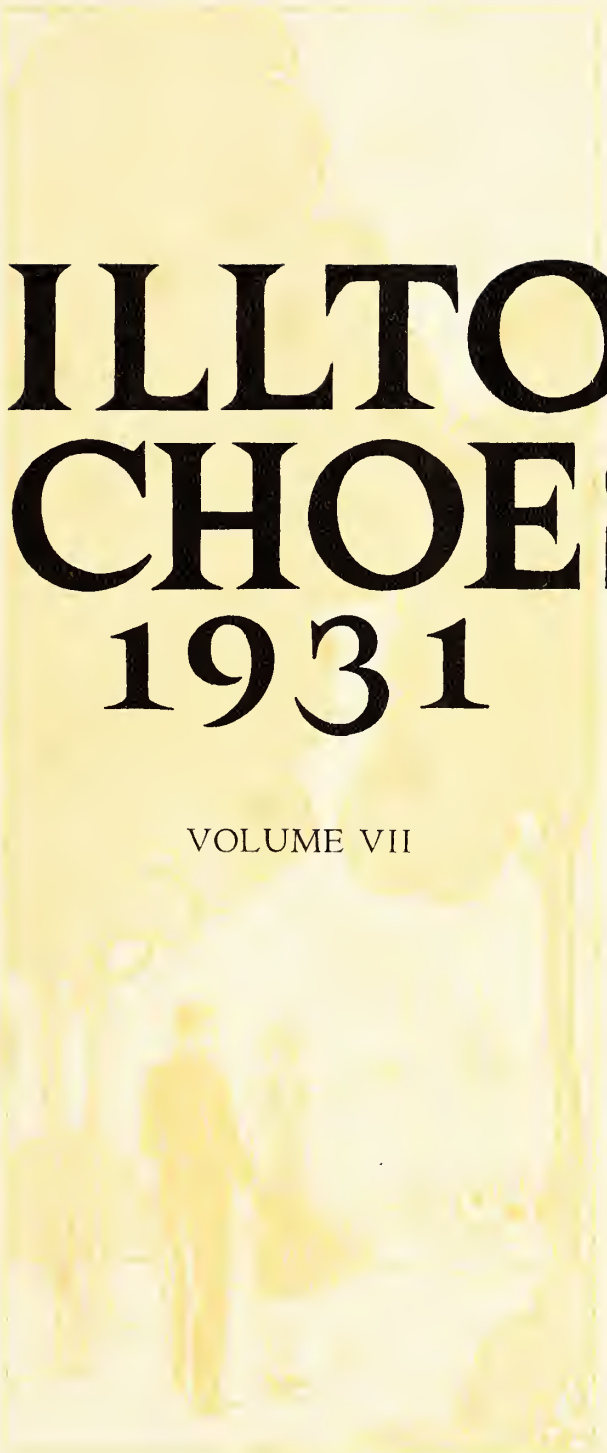
HILLTOP ECHOES 1931

VOLUME VII



Published by
THE STUDENTS
OF
DAVENPORT COLLEGE
LENOIR, NORTH CAROLINA

Foreword

BECAUSE Lenoir leaves a lasting impression on those who visit the city; because of the home-like atmosphere its citizens have made for our Alma Mater; because it is an industrial center offering facilities which are unexcelled for manufacturers and homeseekers; because of the forty industrial plants which present a stable condition in trade, despite temporary flurries in industrial progress; because we feel a close kinship to the building of Lenoir, we have built our annual around the industrial theme. We have sincerely tried to give you our best and we pray that the builders of "Land of Life's Desire" may find an answering echo in their hearts for the HILLTOP ECHOES of '31.

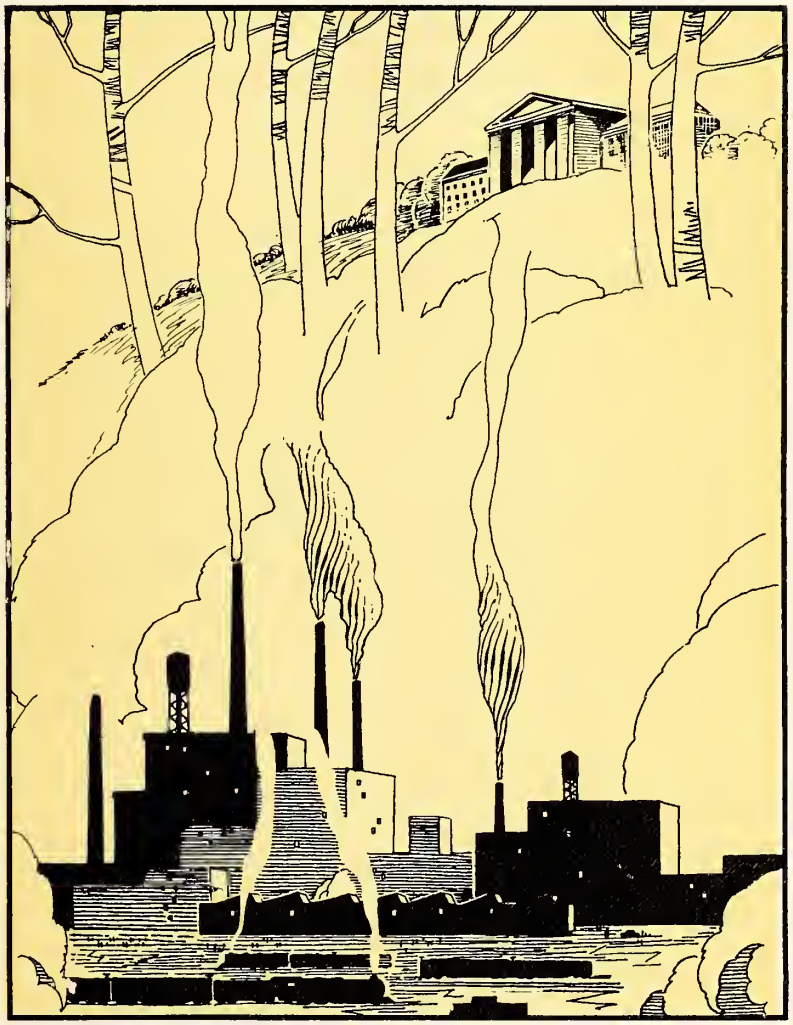
Dedication

TO a city with a spirit of coöperation. To a city built by virtue of practical resources and enterprising citizens.

To the city of gracious women and generous, warm-hearted men, who has for many years nurtured Davenport College in its heart, and brought it through a glorious past, to a more glorious present, with anticipation of a brilliant future we, the Class of 1931, in grateful appreciation, do dedicate this, our volume of HILLTOP ECHOES.



The COLLEGE

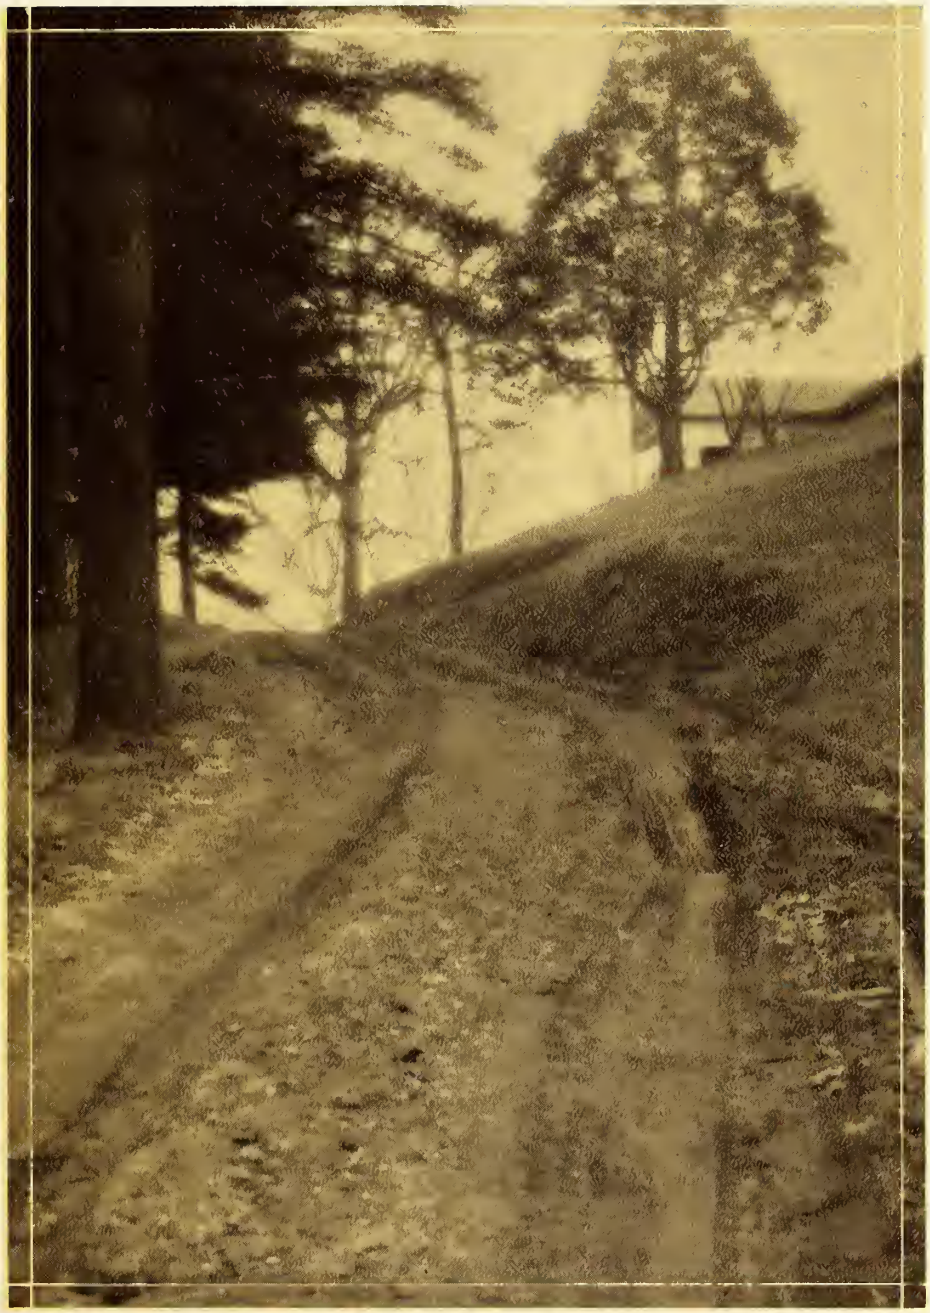
"Where dignity and dreams go hand in hand."

"Where loveliness keeps house."

"Eat, drink, and be merry."

"Fame, wisdom, love, and power were mine."

"O nature! All thy seasons please the eye."



"Its memory lives in music's breath."

History of the Class of '31

On the memorable day of September 16, we entered Davenport College for Women. There were sixty of us poor, little green Freshmen. We looked with awe on our upper classmen, who were so sorry for us. After a few days we were initiated into the sisterhood of Davenport College.

We were given many receptions the first few weeks by the old girls. The Y. W. C. A. and the two literary societies gave us parties. The society books were opened after the Sid reception. In a few weeks we fell into the background again.

Within a week or two, we were given big sisters who did their best to cheer us up and keep us from getting homesick. We had never been away from home more than a day or two at a time. We were taken to see the dazzling sights of the city, and allowed to sit in the drug store for a little while. Our big sisters brought us things to eat and we ate everything in the dining room we could get. To our horror, we began gaining extra pounds of flesh.

After a few weeks when we had settled down to the daily routine, Mr. Jenkins suddenly surprised us by telling us that he was going to take us on a picnic to Blowing Rock. He sent several trucks up to the college, and we piled in and were off for a day of fun. We went when the fall frost had kissed the leaves. In the spring we went again. This time the rhododendron and laurel were in bloom and covered the hillsides. We will never forget those two enjoyable days.

We did everything to the best of our ability to gain fame and honor for ourselves during the year to make the Seniors recognize us. Finally, commencement came with all its honor and glory for the Seniors. We gazed with longing eyes upon them, and yearned for the time when we too would be dignified Seniors.

We entered Davenport again in the fall of 1931 more intelligent and enlightened for having been at D. C. one year. There were sixty of us when we started out, but only forty-one remained. Although we were few in number, we were strong in spirit. Assurance lies however in the fact that although our field is limited in it we remain supreme. It is the quality and not the quantity that counts.

As positions of importance came to us, we felt more and more puffed up. Although we seemed to feel our importance, the teachers did not feel so proud of us. They complained that we were lazy and were not working like we had when we were Freshmen. Everyone wondered what was wrong with us. No one seemed to know. At last someone found the solution to our problem. They discovered that we were afflicted with athletics.

A peculiar, sad creepy feeling comes over me when I think that our happy years at D. C. will soon be over. We have had many ups and downs, but in spite of this we have been happy. This will be our last year together. May the future years be filled with nothing but happiness as we go out of school life into life's school.

LUCILLE MATHESON,
Historian.

Senior Class Prophecy

The following report is one of a faculty meeting which took place here at Davenport in May, 1931. This valuable record has been in the hands of Miss Katherine J. Bigham, for years Dean of Davenport, who retired after years of devoted service. She handed this record over to Miss Mary Byrd Perrow, international exchange manager for college magazines, as a valuable example of the literature of the time. Miss Perrow is a former alumna of Davenport. She has permitted us to publish this in our spring issue and we are sure that it will be of interest to both our new and old readers. (Editor's note: The beginning of this document, which was taken up with petty business affairs, will be omitted. The conclusion is self evident.)

Miss Inez Radford started an informal discussion. "Some of my pupils will have interesting futures. I like to talk."

Lena Andrews, they do tell me, like the now mythical Peggy Hopkins Joyce, is discarding her seventh! Like some radios, she is not selective. Giny Blackwood—she had pretty hair—is a faithful friend. Often between husbands Lena visits her at her home in Winston-Salem, where she is an average matron.

Lecture! What a surprise, her one and only. Miss Adelaide Weaver—she was smart when she was a little girl up here—who won the Pulitzer Prize in 1940, is talking here on how to make a success of married life. Oh yes, she has a husband in the background.

Dr. W. A. Jenkins—"Well, I have a club meeting and have got to be going, but I'll tell you one thing, I don't know what she'll be, but I can bank on Ruth Slagle!"

Miss Hibernia Seay. . . .

Two little colored boys—no, little negro boys clinging on the skirts of Emma Hege and Bessie Wilkinson, missionaries in darkest Afria.

Emmie Hearne Horton and Mabel Ruth Hearon—somehow they seem to stick together—in Cairo! They started out with the missionaries and fell in love with the French Foreign Legion.

Leviathan? Oh, never! Some larger ship has taken its place. Sailing out of New York Harbor it carries two distinguished "ladies of leisure," Miss Maybelle Poovey and Miss Hazel Beard. With them they have the recently widowed Blanche Hoover. What was her husband's name? How should I know? She called him "brother" while she was at Davenport. . . .

Miss Mae Kinsland, like a true speaker, had silence long enough.

Broadway—yes, it hasn't changed much. The same old familiar faces. Alice Washburn and Elma Barnhardt are no longer rivals. Alice has taken to opera.

A Special Concert! This has been arranged for the graduating exercises. Dorothy Stephens, famous concert pianist, has consented to return to her Alma Mater. This is faintly reminiscent of the Murial Kerr recital back in 1930.

Lucile Peterson—an outlet for her energy—is dietitian at the Deaf School in Morganton. She decided that it was best, then all her orders would fall on "deaf ears." No one would be offended. . . .

"Well," said Miss Louise Adams, "You certainly do talk a long time! Now, my pupils—they're different." . . .

Ruth Ernest and Margaret Lisenbee have done well by their queenly statue. Glittering lights show them as joint hostesses of a Tea Room on Fifth Avenue.

Footlights! At last! Madamoiselle Josephine Courtney, Premiere ballet, has just arrived from Paris to favor New York with her gracious presence.

Carrie Stacy?

One field that girls can not enter. Disappointed at not being allowed to become manager of the New York Giants, Carrie has entered a Convent. There she hopes to institute athletics among the sisters. . . .

Miss Frances Ledbetter takes and holds the interest of the group.

Happy—what else but happiness could come out of Happy Valley! Evelyn Steele is touring the United States, searching for Happy Valleys.

Flip—flip—turning the pages of the Cosmopolitan. What's this? None other than the former Miss Clarice Kinsland and her two beautiful children. She has displaced Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., in the Ponds cold cream advertisements. (Editor's note: Miss Kinsland is called by her maiden name in order that she may be known to her old friends). . . .

"I have been thinking," quoth Miss Frances Batte, . . .

A light house—the sea. Hazel Hollifield is working for the Government now. She owns a chain of light houses.

Emi Hinohara—She surprised everyone. She is a lamp lighter on the cloud bound highway to the moon. . . .

Miss Rethlingshafer—"No, I'm not saying for sure, but probably, yes, probably a good many of these girls will be teachers; perhaps right here in Davenport, too. I could name at least. . . . ."

"A few, no doubt," interrupted Miss Martha Biggs, "will be mothers with homes and children; that always seems to happen to a large number!"

"Well! . . . Miss Berdie Ferguson was beginning . . ."

But unfortunately Miss Kathryn Hanes, who had been taking notes, became disinterested and she and Miss Claire Ordway, violinist, had fallen asleep. Who knows what else took place behind those closed doors?

(Editor's Note—Miss Daphne Person expected to be a nurse. When no wars came to make it more interesting, she quitted that profession. A prophecy which predicted this concerning her was omitted, because unlike all the others it was not fulfilled. She is now painting pictures in an interesting studio in Greenwich.)

—Mary Byrd Perrow, Prophet.

Last Will of the Class of 1931

We, the members of the Class of 1931, do hereby will and bequeath the following articles on stated conditions or unconditionally, as the case may be, to the Class of 1932, provided that the members of that class are girls who have successfully completed one year of college work and are attending Davenport Female College for Women, Lenoir, North Carolina.

1. We leave them the college buildings to be used for no purposes other than those connected with ordinary living and with school work.
2. We leave the campus to them. They are to stay on this at all times stated by persons with higher authority.
3. To them we leave our surplus intelligence to be disposed of in the most useful manner.
4. To them we leave all grades below 70, which they are to display with pride to parents and guardians.
5. We leave all our ideals, hopes, ambitions, trials, failures, and disappointments.
6. The thing hardest to part with is our President. We leave him on condition that they love and respect him as we have done.
7. Also we leave the teachers and ask that they be handled with care.
8. We leave the proctors with ear trumpets to hear any small noises occurring at any time not specified in the handbook.
9. We leave the Student Council with a new and unused set of call-downs.
10. The bulletin board is to be left to them. They will find it useful in case of overdue books, assignments, and rules.
11. We wish we could take the bell with us, but from sheer pity we leave it to the coming class. They will find it necessary to fit their actions to the ringing of this bell.
12. We leave the maids, cooks, and janitors, and their services. They may be requested to render personal services at any time provided due permission has been given to ask service by the President or the Dean of Women.
13. Miscellaneous articles are left such as gum on the bottom of seats, paper behind radiators, carelessly made pencil marks, thumb-tack holes, and ink spots.
14. To them we leave our numerous Senior privileges to be used at any desired time.
15. We leave to those in authority a spy glass to be used to detect any slight misconduct of any girl while down street.
16. We leave the set limits for walking and hiking. They will please not go outside these hallowed bounds.
17. We leave to them the classrooms. They will attend one-hour classes in these, and endeavor to know each lesson while being forced to learn some six other lessons.
18. We leave the library. A girl may or may not at any time be permitted to talk as loud as she chooses.
19. We leave the infirmary. Girls will be permitted to go there only when they have not studied a lesson.
20. We leave the studios. Please use for any desired purpose at any desired time.
21. We, being generous, leave our beauty, talents, intelligence, and industriousness.
22. Lastly, we leave our love and best wishes.

To Our Sister Class

Because college has meant more to us by having you; because we have found in your friendship and love for us a greater faith in the beauty of life; because you have bound our hearts in love to yours in our "golden chain of friendship"; because we love you. we dedicate this page to our sister class.
